OF MUCH INTEREST

Is Letter From Idaho Springs to W. F. Garnett & Co.

Description of Working of Alpine Gold and Silver Mine.

Idaho Springs, Colorado,
September 29, 1902.

Gentlemen:

Dr. Gilbert advises me that you are interested in the Consolidated Alpine G. & S. Mining Co., and as manager I take pleasure in writing you describing our workings. The property is located on Alps Mountain near the famous Lamartine mine, and consists of 35 claims so located as to cover all portions of the 30 different veins that traverse our property, and we have left no open ground whereby any person can get in our midst to cause us the least bit of trouble as we have complete and absolute titles.

The main workings consist of a shaft on the Alpine vein 300 feet deep with three sets of levels running laterally from the shaft. The first level is 86 feet below the surface, at which point there has been done 130 feet of drifting and a little stoping. The vein here is strong and carries exceptionally good values in gold and silver. The second level is 166 feet from the surface, with 650 feet of drifting. Only small stopes aggregating about 90 feet long and 30 feet high have been worked on the east side of the shaft, and these stopes have produced $41,000. Had the gold been known to have existed in the ore, the production would have been about $100,000. This entire level is in ore of good value, which we are holding in reserve. The third set of levels are 266 feet from the surface, and here we have done only 250 feet of drifting. The vein is exceptionally strong and assays taken from different parts have run as high as $600 per ton—that is the first class ore. The mill ore averages $20 per ton and varies in size from 2 to 7 feet in width. The bottom of the shaft is 34 feet below this level, and in the bottom we have a fine vein of sulphide ore which runs $250 per ton. We recently sunk the shaft 30 feet to enlarge the sump and it is my intention to run two crosscuts, one to the hanging wall and the other from the foot wall. These crosscuts will cut the other veins which lie parallel to the Alpine vein, and we will be able to carry on the workings through our main shaft.

It is the intention of our company to thoroughly develop this property before it attempts to declare a dividend. It will take some little time to thoroughly develop, but when sufficient development has been done, we will then be in a position to produce and keep up a heavy and steady production of ores.

If it was our desire, we could work out the ore which we have in sight at a good profit and declare a dividend, but it would not be practicable, as we would some day find ourselves in a position where we would have to develop the property, and it is cheaper and better to develop the property now than it is to work the mine out and then look for more ore. There is not a place in the mine, no matter which level, which upraise, winze or stope, but where you can go and find a good streak of ore. We have not encountered a barren place in the mine and every foot shows ore. In some places the streak is narrower than at others owing to the fact that no vein has an absolute width. It varies according to the pressure which Mother Earth gave while the veins were being formed. The hardness of the country rock has considerable to do with the varying size of these veins.

The company are working on the theory that it is better to thoroughly develop and always keep the property in such a condition that we will have sufficient ore reserved in sight so that we can keep up our production and still carry on some development work. They deem it as necessary to do this as it is for any business institution to have a reserve to fall back upon in case of need, and mining today is conducted on the same business principles as you would conduct any large business in your home town. The mining industry requires the same business ability that you would exert in any mercantile business.

I had a very pleasant visit from

Mr. Bush, of our city. He spent several days here looking over our property and expressed himself as being well pleased. I would like very much to have a visit from you and will agree to show you one of the finest countries and climates you were ever in. This district is called the "Banner district of Colorado" and covers an area of about forty square miles, in which we have 325 producing mines in full operation, and over 100 more which are now being opened up and developed and will soon be numbered with the shippers. This is a better record than any other district in this state can boast of. The percentage of grain of this district over any other district was 35 per cent. last year and from the statements of the production it will pass that figure this year.

Trusting I shall have the pleasure of an early visit from you, I am,
Yours very truly,

Thomas B. Crow,
Gen. Manager.

BLUNDERING COURTESY.

An Offer That Was Well Meant But Very Boldly Made.

Excessive kindness of heart, when allied to a blundering courtesy, is occasionally productive of an amusing incident, says the Candid Friend. Of such is the following: A president in recent times of one of our royal colleges was noted for the possession of a trim little yacht, which he was fond of sailing in one of the reaches of the river Thames. One day the president had the misfortune to capsize his craft, with the consequent result of complete immersion. He was immediately assisted ashore and a change of clothing provided at an adjacent boathouse. This, however, did not include a hat of any description. The president, who is an old man and correspondingly bald, stood shivering, his scant hair uncomfortably stirred by the breeze. His plight was observed with respectful compassion by one of the students of the college who had witnessed the catastrophe and offered his own headgear. The president, however, seemed reluctant to accept it, saying: "If I take yours, what will you do?" "Oh, sir," said the student, "it doesn't matter for me. I've got hair on my head." This statement was accepted as final by the president, together with the cap, and he laughed heartily at what, after all, was not wholly a one-sided joke, for the consternation of the student may be better imagined than described.

Hot Water Clock.

One of the most curious clocks in the world is perhaps that which tells the time to the inhabitants of a little American backwoods town, and which was constructed some time ago. The machinery, which is nothing, but a face, hands and lever, is connected with a geyser, which shoots out an immense column of hot water every 38 seconds. This spouting water never varies to the tenth of a second. Every time the water spouts up it strikes the lever and moves the hands forward 38 seconds.

DID DUTY FOR ALL.

A Jeweled Cigar-Case Given Away with No Parting Pangs.

Some years ago, according to London Tit-Bits, a foreign diplomat, who shall be nameless, presented his letters of recall to a certain king, who invited him to a farewell banquet at the palace, presenting him during the course of the evening with a superb golden cigar case, studded with costly jewels, as a memento of his sojourn at the court and of his majesty's appreciation of the services he had rendered.

On the day following the presentation a note arrived from the grand master of the king's household, begging that the case might be returned for some slight alteration—something or other was to be inscribed on the interior of the case. Of course the diplomat sent it.

A few days elapsed, and then the diplomat ventured to inquire how the alterations were progressing and when he might expect a return of the case, as he was in a hurry to leave the country and get home.

A polite reply was forwarded that the alterations would be completed in a day or two. At considerable inconvenience the diplomat tarried a week, preferring to wait to intrust the costly gift to a shipping agent to deliver to him in England. A fortnight elapsed, three weeks, and then, in despair, after wasting much stationery and ink, the wearied diplomat set sail, leaving his address behind him. From that day to this the cigar case has never turned up.

Recently, however, he met his successor, who, in his turn, had just left the court. The latter was full of enthusiasm about the king, who, he exclaimed, "is a capital fellow. He presented me with a splendid gold cigar case, heavily encrusted with magnificent gems, when I took my leave of him. I would like to show it to you, only they asked to have it back for a bit to make an alteration of some sort."

The smile that developed on the features of the other diplomat became very broad, and investigation brought to light the fact that yet other diplomats had been treated in the same manner; that is to say, presumably the identical gold cigar case had done duty for them all.

FRIGHTENED BY CIRCUS LION.

An Old Railroad Engineer in the West Tells of a Night Ride.

Dan Bechtel, of Brookfield, tells the Kansas City Journal a story about a night ride he once took with a loose lion, which, as he says, tends to "make the gooseflesh creep a little." Bechtel for 14 years was an engineer on the Hannibal & St. Joseph railroad. One night in 1888 he left Macon for Shelby, his engine pulling the Wallace shows. It was very dark, and he had orders not to run faster than 15 miles an hour. Bechtel says he was "kidding" the fireman and head brakeman about what would happen if some of the wild animals should get loose, when he looked up and saw an old lion on top of the cars, moving slowly and gingerly toward the engine.

"When the brakeman and fireman realized what was coming," says Bechtel, "they made a dive for the cab door, and were soon riding on the front of the engine. Mr. Lion came to the first car and stood there, critically examining the engine. The firebox was open, and that kept him back, as he did not seem to know what to make of the bright, dazzling light. I gave a whistle that would scare ghosts, but it did not 'phase' the lion. We soon began to lose steam and the train had to slow down. When we reached Shelby, Conductor Pratt came up, making a big kick because we had been going slow. I pointed to the first car, and Pratt quickly retreated.

"The train soon came and took the big fellow to his cage. He had found a loose bar, which he worked out. With the fireman and brakeman on the front end and the show people and Conductor Pratt on the rear end, it seemed as if the lion was getting too close. I thought of all the mean things I had ever done, and held to the throttle and let the engine go as fast as she would with what steam I still had on."

A Swallow's Flight.

It has often been stated that 60 miles an hour was the utmost rate at which a swallow could fly. Recent experiments between Compeigne and Antwerp proves that a swallow in a hurry can cover 128 1/2 miles in an hour.

AWFUL HEADACHE.

That period of life known as the "Change" is very trying to many women. It generally affects the health seriously. Often it affects the mind as well as the body. In some cases the suffering is very severe and prolonged, and life seems a burden instead of a blessing.

There is no woman passing through the critical period of the change of life who will not receive help from the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. In almost every case it will cure the pains and suffering, and permanently re-establish the general health.

"When I commenced to take 'Favorite Prescription' I thought I would never live through the 'Change,'" writes Mrs. Charles E. Thompson, of Georgetown, Eldorado Co., Calif. "I suffered from all the troubles one could have and live. I had stomach trouble; lived on dry bread and hot water for three months, not being able to keep any food on my stomach; had constipation and awful headache; was bloated at times in the bowels, had pain in the chest and hacking cough, but, thanks to Dr. Pierce, I am not troubled any more."

"Since last October I have traveled over hard, rocky roads in farm wagons and had no return of any of my old troubles, and I know that before using Dr. Pierce's medicines I could not have stood half of it, as the least jar would have caused aching from head to foot."

"As to the Common Sense Medical Adviser, I am very thankful for it. I would not be without your book if I had to pay five dollars for one of them. I think it is the best family doctor book that I ever saw, and would advise every lady who has not got one of your most reliable and useful books to send at once for one. I know that she would never regret sending for it."

Sick women, especially those suffering from diseases of long standing, are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

If you are led to the purchase of "Favorite Prescription" because of its remarkable cures of other women, do not accept a substitute which has none of these cures to its credit.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are easy and pleasant to take. A most effective laxative.

We have handled Dr. Moffett's TEETHINA (Teething Powders) ever since its first introduction to the public and made as a proprietary medicine, and our trade in it has steadily increased from year to year until our orders now amount to two or three hundred gross per year, which is a very strong evidence of its merit and the satisfaction it is giving to the mothers of the country, for they say nothing so effectually counteracts the effects of the summer's hot sun or overcomes so quickly the troubles incident to teething.
